

Statement ILDS:

The International League of Dermatological Societies (ILDS) supports activities which increase the visibility of psoriasis as a major skin disease.

The International League of Dermatological Societies (ILDS) is a non-governmental organization in official relations with the World Health Organization. It was formed to:

- stimulate the cooperation of societies of dermatology and societies interested in all fields of cutaneous medicine and biology throughout the world;
- encourage the worldwide advancement of dermatological education, care, and sciences;
- promote personal and professional relations among the dermatologists of the world;
- represent dermatology in commissions and international health organizations; and,
- organize a World Congress of Dermatology every four (4) years
